Learning Agreement

August 2024 V1

Having made the decision to study with CSTD Bath we welcome you into our community.

The purpose of this learning agreement is to help all those involved with CSTD Bath: our staff; tutors; and members of our learning community, understand the spirit of the relationship between us all.

Responsibilities statements

Having joined the community, you have accepted a level of responsibility for your learning. The below are those responsibilities that we believe are of most benefit to your learning. This means we encourage you to:

- Make use of the information and resources that are made available to support you during your training.
- See your Tutor and Supervisor of Supervision as sources of support and advice during your training.
- Conduct yourself in a responsible manner with a high degree of regard and respect for the learning, living and professional differences of others in your community.
- Respect confidentiality and privacy.
- Respond in a timely manner to any requests for information from CSTD staff to administer courses i.e. dietary requirements.
- Let us know if you experience any difficulties in engaging with your study or have any concerns with respect to delivery of your training.

Entitlement statements

You can expect:

- CSTD Bath to address the reasonable needs of all students regardless of gender, ethnicity, age, disability or background.
- A supportive learning environment respectful and mindful of learning, living and professional differences.
- To be provided with accurate, timely and helpful information regarding your training modules.
- For your data to be managed in accordance with our Privacy Notice (available to view here: Privacy-Notice.pdf (cstdbath.co.uk)).
